It is said in behalf of Soviet Russia that the world may learn from her the solution of the problem of regulating production and consumption. The same lesson may be learned in any penitetiary or poor house in the United States. There production, where it is practiced, is strictly regulated. There is never any problem of overproduction or excess consumption. It is easy to attain such efficiency when the relation of master and slave is established.

By making every citizen of our country the serf of an oligarchy at Washington, with branch dictatorships at our state capital and county seat, we might be able to establish greater "efficiency." With autocrats to control production and consumption, all economic complications would be avoided. This would be especially easy if all citizens were reduced as in Soviet Russia, to the use of bare necessities, if imports were regulated with a view only to absolute national needs, and exports could be sold abroad at any price necessary to keep the machine going.

But at what price would such "efficiency" be attained! At the sacrifice, certainly, of everything that makes life worth while to those who see in life something above materialism, and who would be unwilling to sacrifice liberty, opportunity and self-respect to the ambitions of the politicians in control of government.

Certainly Americans can learn nothing from such an "experiment," sacrificial as it is of everything this experiment of our own stands for. If Americans sought nothing but subservience to agents of the state in return for bed and board they can get this in any jail or poor house in the land.

The soviet dictatorship professes an interest in the welfare of the worker. It has raised up a new aristocracy of office-holders who, in absolute control of their fellows, find satisfaction of their lust for power. But there has been denied to all—poor and rich alike—that which every worth-while man aspires to—and that is some degree of control over his own life, his own beliefs, his own destiny.

It is not surprising that our greatest organization of workers—The American Federation of Labor, sees thru the sham of the claim that Soviet Russia is a workers' government.

It is undoubtedly true that efficiency is more easily attained under despotism than under free institutions. If the highest aspiration of manhood is servility, then the efficiency of tyranny is desirable—it is able to cut or shoot its way thru to results, where democracy must make its way over many obstacles. In the decision between these two methods is involved the whole problem of what life is about. But there are many who are inclined to doubt that the highest form of civilization is represented by the beehive or the anthill in which both discipline and efficiency have reached a point far beyond that ever attained by human beings—the reason being that men occupy a higher place in the scheme of life than either ants or bees.

Supervisors Refuse Funds For County Booth At State Fair

Yesterday farmers' and orchardists' organizations, led by S. N. Hedegard, prominent local rancher, met with no sucess in their effort to secure an appropriation of $2,500 from the county supervisors with which to finance a display at the state fair in September.

Calling attention to the fact that this is one of the major fruit growing counties, Mr. Hedegard told the board it seemed necessary that Santa Clara county should be represented at the fair, or face the danger of losing its exhibit space. No exhibit from this county appeared at last year's fair, but the year before $4,000 was appropriated for an exhibit from this county. Hedegard believed that with growers contributing most of the work, a suitable display could be arranged for the requested $2,500.

Supervisor Joe McKinnon cast the only ray of hope when he advised the committee to prepare and submit an estimate in detail, declaring that something might be done about it when the 1931-32 county budget is prepared within the next few weeks.

MISS ROWENA FARMAN HAS BRIDGE CLUB

Thursday evening Miss Rowena Farman was hostess to her bridge club at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Farman on North Second street.

A color scheme of black and yellow featuring "dickie birds" was used on the card tables. After the playing a dainty collation was served.

Altogether there are 70 pupils at the hospital, with three full time teachers, Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Eva Rector and Mrs. Deborah Thompson. The school is financed jointly by the state and county and is an accredited school under the Campbell grammar school jurisdiction.

MRS. ANN BUPPICH DIES AT O'CONNOR'S

Mrs. Anna Buppich, 72, a resident of Winchester road, passed away last night at the O'Connor sanitarium from pneumonia which followed a stroke that left her helpless and alone for three days in her home.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Dan Yeager, neighbors, became alarmed at the non-appearance of the aged woman, and upon investigation found her unconscious, in bed. Dr. W. I. Merrill and Constable Coupland were summoned, and Dr. Merrill had her rushed to O'Connor's in a Melvin ambulance.

Mrs. Buppich had no living relatives or close friends, according to former acquaintances in Sacramento.

Authoress Speaks At P. T. A. Meet; Officers Installed

Following a joint high and grammar school P. T. A. banquet in the grammar school cafeteria last Tuesday evening, an interesting talk was given by Kathleen Norris, noted authoress. "Peace" was the subject of her talk which was given in the auditorium and attended by the general public. Mrs. M. H. Farnham contributed two enjoyable vocal solos to the program.

Installation of officers of the two organizations was also a feature of the meeting. Mrs. Geo. Schyler, president of this district P. T. A., installed the following officers for the coming year: High P. T. A. — Mrs. J. W. Knowles, president; Mrs. F. Johnson, vice president; Mrs. R. E. Stubbe, treasurer; Neil Best, secretary. The second play was also presented by the dramatic class and was entitled "Good Vintage," with Geneva DiFiore, Betty Mumma, Lulu Murdock, Margaret Keesling, Marion Fisci, Louis Mammini and Gene Leer.

Treasury Issues $800,000,000 Long Term Bonds Because of Big Deficit—Teague Retires From Federal Farm Board.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Andrew Mellon

THOUGH the United States is popularly supposed to be the richest nation on earth, the government is "up against it"—the "it" meaning a billion dollar deficit, with the prospect of another billion deficit during the next fiscal year. The treasury, therefore, is about to issue long term bonds for $800,000,000, bearing 3½ per cent interest. This is in lieu of an increase in taxes, which probably will not be asked until after next year's Presidential election if at all. The reason for this course is obvious. It is expected that there will be further bond issues, as well as borrowings on short time certificates of indebtedness. The public debt, which had been steadily reduced since 1923, now begins to climb upward again.

This bond issue announced by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon is the largest peace time offering of long term government obligations in the country's history with the exception of the $1,000,000,000 bond issue of 1924, which was put out to refinance World war indebtedness. The interest rate of 3½ per cent on this issue is the lowest of any long term government financing since 1916-17.

By Thursday night the new bond issue had been oversubscribed nearly eight times, and Secretary Mellon was able to report to the President that the plan of handling the deficit by adding to the national debt instead of increasing taxes was successful.

The bonds will be dated and will bear interest from June 15, 1931, and will mature on June 15, 1949, being redeemable at the option of the treasury on and after June 15, 1946. They will be issued in both bearer and registered form in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and $100,000. In addition there will be registered bonds in the $50,000 denomination. The federal reserve banks will be the official agencies for the flotation of the issue, but all banks will receive subscriptions from investors.

The bonds will be exempt from federal, state, and local taxes, except inheritance taxes and surtaxes.

GERMANY'S huge flying boat, DO-X, after long delays and various accidents, finally crossed the Atlantic ocean successfully. It made the flight from Cape Verde islands to Fernando Noronha off the coast of Brazil in 12 hours and 15 minutes. Defying superstition, 13 persons were aboard the DO-X.

It was announced by the State department in Washington that Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh will start before long on a pleasure tour of the Orient in their Lockheed plane, flying to Japan and China via the North Pacific and Russia. They probably will follow the route taken by the army flyers in 1924, going to Siberia by way of the Aleutian islands.

C. C. Teague

C. C. TEAGUE, one of the original members of the federal farm board and its vice chairman, has resigned, having served one more year than he at first intended. In his letter to President Hoover tendering his resignation Mr. Teague declared the board had fully justified itself and its cost to the taxpayers. He said that without its advice and revolving fund many farmers' co-operatives would have gone under; and he warmly defended the emergency operations of the board in stabilizing wheat and cotton.

"There are two distinct methods of stabilizing markets," he pointed out. "Probably the one that has been emphasized most in publicity has been the stabilization operations on wheat and cotton, which were entirely emergency operations undertaken to meet emergency conditions and which I believe are entirely justified and which will have resulted in benefits to agriculture and business generally far outweighing any cost to the treasury.

"However, in my judgment the greatest benefit will come through another type of stabilization of markets which will come through the long time project of developing a system of co-operative control of agricultural products, which will effect a better control of production and a better control of distribution and thus have an important influence in the stabilization of markets."

REPORTING on the general agricultural situation, the bureau of agricultural economics of the Department of Agriculture shows that American farmers are selling their produce at less than prewar prices, but are paying about one-third more than before the war for the things they buy. The bureau estimates that farmers now receive 86 per cent of prewar prices and pay 136 per cent for goods bought.

In other respects the outlook is not bad. "Farm crops," says the report, "are recovering from the effects of the continued cool weather. Winter wheat prospects have been improved. Fruit prospects are generally reported fair to good. Live stock growers appear to be keeping up herds and flocks despite somewhat adverse conditions in feed prospects in several sections."

H. D. Brown

VIRGIN ISlands now have only one governor, and that is Dr. Paul Pearson; for Herbert D. Brown, chief of the federal bureau of efficiency, has had a spat with the doctor and retired from the co-governorship which he has exercised for nearly two years. In 1929 congressional committees asked Mr. Brown to investigate the islands with a view to reducing administration costs. He made three long visits there and his recommendations were displeasing to Capt. Waldo Evans, then naval governor. Also, he obtained $141,000 to be expended under his sole direction. Last winter he recommended transfer of the islands to the Interior department and when this was done he returned to help the new governor, Doctor Pearson, whom he had selected for the job.

It is said in Washington that Brown, having quarreled with Pearson, has urged the removal of the later, but that it is unlikely the President will take any such action. The exact cause of the friction between the two men is not publicly known.

GOVERNORS of about half the states took part in the annual conferences at French Lick, Ind., and several of them disrupted the program of harmless topics by injecting their own vigorous opinions into their addresses. Pinchot of Pennsylvania, for instance, insisted on making a hot attack on the public utility corporations instead of talking about timber; and in the closing session Ritchie of Maryland, criticising the conference for trying to avoid controversial subjects, urged the return of liquor control to the states as a solution of taxation problems.

Gov. Horton

TENNESSEE'S political-financial troubles were approaching a climax during the week with the state legislature preparing to vote on the question of impeaching the governor, Henry H. Horton. The situation in Nashville was tense. Though the foes of the executive were apparently in the majority, Horton seemed undaunted.

Most of the eight articles of impeachment reported to the legislature by a committee relate to a main charge of conspiracy, alleging plots between the governor and Col. Luke Lea and Rogers Caldwell, two bankers who are now under indictment as a result of the bank failures of last November. Congressman Ed Crump, the Memphis political boss, is conducting the fight against the governor, though he kept himself in the background. The resignation of Senator Scott Fitzhugh, one of the Crump faction, from the speakership, and the election of Senator A. B. Broadbent of Clarksville to fill his place took much of the thunder away from the defense, for Senator Broadbent is an independent, an anti-Crump man, and he will be the next governor if Mr. Horton is forced out.

FOUR eastern and western air lines, whose planes fly about 12,000,000 miles annually, have consolidated their management, operation, traffic and sales and now become divisions of the United Air Lines, with general offices in Chicago. The lines involved in this big merger are: The National Air Transport, operating from New York to Chicago and Chicago to Dallas; the Boeing Air Transport, operating from Chicago to San Francisco; the Pacific Air Transport, operating from Seattle to San Diego, and the Varney Air Lines, operating from Salt Lake City to Seattle and the Pacific Northwest.

P. G. Johnson, president of the Boeing companies, who was recently made president of the National Air Transport and the Varney Air Lines, is to be president of the new company.

CANADIAN tax payers are hard hit by the first budget presented to parliament by Premier R. B. Bennett. He announced a deficit of $80,000,000 and said new taxes would be required to meet it. Consequently he proposed imports as follows: Increase in the sales tax from 1 per cent to 4 per cent; reintroduction of 3-cent postage; increase of the income tax on corporations and stock companies from 8 to 10 per cent and a new special excess tax of 1 per cent on all imports.

Manufacturers of the United States came off more easily that had been expected. Only about 200 items in the tariff against them were altered by the premier. Customs duties were raised on anthracite coal, furniture, oranges and the higher priced automobiles. There was bad news, however, for Americans who have investments in Canadian companies, for Mr. Bennett ordained that beginning next July an income tax of 2 per cent must be paid by all foreign investors receiving dividends from Canadian concerns.

The only bright spot in Canada's financial picture, Mr. Bennett stated, was the fact that the dominion's conversion loan of $250,000,000 had been subscribed up to $639,816,500. He emphasized that during his regime no fewer than 75 American manufacturers had established plants in Canada and made it clear he was sticking close to his "Canada First" attitude. His conclusion brought a great ovation from his followers.

Chancellor Bruening

GERMANY is expecting great benefits to result from the remarkable meeting at Chequers, England, of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson. The German statesmen went there Thursday on invitation from the Englishmen, and the four men discussed thoroughly the bearing of reparations on the world economic crisis. It was the hope of the Germans that this conference would find a way out of the present financial wilderness.

The Chequers meeting aroused the French and led them to reaffirm their contention that German reparations and the Allied debts to America were inseparably connected by the Young plan. As it is put by A. L. Jeune in Le Midi of Paris: "On the battlefield of international debts, where we held the front line so long until the Young plan brought us back to the reserve trenches, it would be a great imprudence to give them up."

IN A decision that seems to give assurance that the press of America is and shall continue to be free, the Supreme court of the United States held unconstitutional the Minnesota statute authorizing the suppression of newspapers and other periodicals publishing matter which the authorities deem to be defamatory of public officials or other persons or institutions. In the opinion of five members of the court—Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices Holmes, Brandeis, Stone and Roberts—the Minnesota law, in so far as it authorizes such suppression, is "an infringement of the liberty of the press guaranteed by the Fourteenth amendment." The majority of the court took the position that the freedom of the press to criticize public officials is one of the bulwarks of our institutions, that for any abuse of this freedom there is the remedy of punishment under libel and other laws, and that the suppression of periodicals because of the character of the matter published would amount to the setting up of a censorship of the press.

Associate Justice Pierce Butler, himself a Minnesotan, read a dissenting opinion concurred in by Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds, and Sutherland asserting that the majority opinion gives to freedom of the press a broader interpretation than any that had ever before been recognized.

THE general assembly of the Presbyterian church, in session at Pittsburgh, rebuked the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America for report of its committee approving of birth control, and adopted a motion instructing the council to "hold its peace on all questions relating to morality and delicacy" until they have been discussed with its constituents.

Dino Grandi

RELATIONS between Premier Mussolini and the Vatican were strained almost to the breaking point and outwardly it appeared there could be no peaceful settlement of the quarrel. But efforts at conciliation were being carried on quietly by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi on the one hand and Cardinal Gasparri on the other. The trouble centers in the Catholic Action clubs. Mussolini decreed the disbanding of all youth organizations connected with Catholic Action because of alleged political propaganda and closed the clubs and playgrounds. The pope protested against this, both as head of the Vatican City and as head of the church. He made effective his disapproval by withdrawing his personal representative from the Padua celebrations, canceling the diocesan eucharistic congress in Rome, prohibiting church processions and placing the Catholic Action societies under charge of the bishops. Mussolini gave out a statement saying there was nothing temporary about his acts and that the clubs were permanently closed.

Wednesday the directory of the Fascist party ordered the leaders of all groups to be ready to defend Fascism against its foes "under whatever banner," and charged that some sections of the Catholic Action society had been "openly and surreptitiously" hostile to Fascism.

GRAMMAR BOARD APPOINTS NEW GRADE TEACHER

At the last meeting of the Campbell grammar school board Miss Phoebe Pugh, graduate of the Campbell high school and San Jose State, daughter of John Pugh of Pine Ridge avenue, was appointed to the position of second grade teacher. She has been a member of the faculty of the Fairview school, near Modesto.

Provision was also made for the further protection of students riding to and from school in busses. A "look-out" will hereafter scout all railroad crossings before the busses cross the tracks, and the vehicles will be regularly inspected by state inspectors, who will make written report to the school board.

Philip Fletcher left Monday for Porterville where he will visit his father.

KIWANIS NOTES
By Heck

Dr. Carl Hazeltine of San Jose State College gave a very instructive nature study talk at Kiwanis luncheon today dealing particularly with snakes and spiders of the coast region. He gave particular emphasis to the poisonous varities their habits and life. His talk was made to give the traveler and vacationist an idea of how best to appreciate the interesting creatures of his environs. At the close of his talk he showed reels of pictures he had taken of small animal life in its native habitat.

Dr Frank R. Anderson was received into membership and presented with the "K" button by Dr. W. I. Merrill with appropriate remarks. Mark Purmort was chairman.

Hans and Betty Thaysen gave a cornet-piano number.

NOTHING'S TOO NICE FOR A BRIDE...
that's why her range is* ELECTRIC

BRIDES OF TODAY and brides of other days—you can save time for rest and recreation when you cook with electricity.

The electric range with its automatic time and temperature controls does the mechanical work which once kept women watching in the kitchen. But thanks to the electric range, those days are gone forever.

Today a complete meal is placed in the electric oven, say at 1 o'clock—Roast Beef, Browned Potatoes, Green Beans, and Fresh Pineapple Pudding. At 4 o'clock, while you are miles away, the electricity automatically turns on and keeps the oven at an even 400 degrees until 5:30, when the current turns off. The stored heat in the insulated oven keeps the food warm until you return home. Then you serve the meal—hot—and perfectly cooked.

You will also be delighted with the cleanliness of electric cooking. Moreover, the electric range is fast—new cooking elements make it so. Besides that, the cost for electricity is economical—4c worth of electricity, on the average, cooks the dinner for four persons. And the electric range itself costs no more than any other good range.

It's easy to have an electric range in your kitchen—just a few dollars down and a few dollars a month. Come into our office or a dealer's store today and select the model you prefer.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS
By Frank L. Litschert

In a sensibly optimistic statement the other day President James A. Farrell, of the United States Steel corporation, said in part:

"The large increase in the deposits in our savings banks, to mention but one favorable symptom, shows that we possess within ourselves the power to speed revival of business at home. Much of the delay in the return to buying activity is due to lack of confidence in the future. Discussions which lead to nowhere have tended to excite fears and apprehensions which have no solid foundation in the facts which testify to the unimpaired economic strength and sound business structure of our country.

"If we could solve our own problems, we should avoid controversies that can have no immediate and practical effects upon American trade. Our recovery is not wholly conditional upon the solution of problems in other lands. We possess within ourselves the power to lead the world trade recovery. This power, to be effective, must be directed to the solution of our domestic situation. If we would aid the world, our efforts must begin at home."

The Chicago Tribune recently quoted an executive head of one of the greatest industries of the country as saying:

"We hear a great deal about conditions abroad. As a matter of fact, speaking for myself, the situation abroad is not as bad as it is painted. It is bad, to be sure, but all the world is leaning upon the United States. If we concentrate on the United States and lean more on our own country we can stimulate business in this country without waiting for the recovery in Europe. The capacity of our country to overcome present business troubles has not been applied to the fullest extent. The more resolute and successful our efforts to discover remedies within our own shores, the greater the likelihood of a favorable reaction and more speedy recovery in other countries. We are capable of greater effort and enterprise in making our domestic market a more efficient stabilizer of American industry."

Here are some facts well worth digesting. Since the depression in which we are plunged at present is worldwide, too many people seem to have the opinion that the United States cannot recover until the world at large recovers. The fact is that Uncle Sam ought, and will be the leader in the recovery and Europe is now anxiously waiting for the first sign that things are getting better in the United States. We have the same people, the same national resources and the same highly organized industry and potential consuming power that we had three or four years ago. The difference is that then we were riding on a wave of foolish, illogical optimism, while at present we are in the trough of a wave of pessimism which is equally as foolish. Many of the people who two years ago were stating that a new era had come and that values would continue to mount higher and higher without interruption are now just as sure that we are in the worst depression in the world's history and that things will never get better.

This habit of looking toward Europe and thinking that our recovery must come from there has given rise to all sorts of panaceas. It has brought new waves of propaganda for debt cancellation, for reducing the tariff, and for joining the League Court and the League of Nations. As a matter of fact, while foreign trade is highly desirable and necessary yet it is not to be forgotten that we consume 90 per cent of what we produce at home. Why not, therefore, quit looking across the Atlantic and devote a little more time to getting our own houses in order first? If we do this, if we look after our own interests, and our own people, seeking to iron out the wrinkles at home, it won't be long until some real improvement may come in the United States. And shortly following that there should be some improvement in Europe, too. Even those internationalists who seem to put the welfare of Europe above that of America ought to be shrewd enough to see that in the present world-wide depression they can best help Europe by assisting Uncle Sam to get on his feet where he can begin to consume more of the things which Europe sends us.

PUNDITA CIRCLE HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC WEDNESDAY

Wednesday evening the members of the Pundita Circle, together with their husbands and families, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Pardee for the last meeting of the Circle until fall.

Long tables were set in the garden near the open fireplace, and a barbecue picnic was served by a committee which included Mesdames G. W. Burrow, A. M. Standish, W. E. Vaughn and L. E. Davidson.

After the repast Mrs. B. O. Curry told of her recent trip to the Hawaiian islands with her husband and daughter. Later the guests gathered in the spacious living room where auction bridge was enjoyed until a late hour.

Mrs. Pardee had been looking forward to this event and her garden was beautiful with many flowers in bloom.

B. O. CURRYS ENJOY HAWAIIAN JAUNT

Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Curry and Miss Myrtle Curry arrived home Saturday, May 30, from a most enjoyable trip to the Hawaiian islands. The Pacific was smooth as a pond and the weather in the islands delightful, according to the currys. They especially enjoyed the beautiful gardens, blossoming trees, and the jungles of palms, tree ferns and hibiscus.

The entire trip, being the last tour conducted by the company which operates the S. S. Malolo, was well planned, and there was not a dull moment in the trip. An interesting feature was a 90-mile automobile jaunt across the mountains to the other side of the island, and back through the sugar cane and pineapple plantations.

The last morning in Honolulu the Currys were entertained at breakfast in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Yale Maxon, Mrs. Maxon later taking Mrs. Curry through the Honolulu shopping district.

Leaving Honolulu they went to the island of Hilo which is a night's trip away. Here they enjoyed a visit to the crater of the volcano. In all things the Currys report they enjoyed the excursion very much.
